Bank of Ghana conducts review of Flutterwave's operations: The Bank of Ghana (BoG) is conducting a review on the activities of Flutterwave Technology Solutions Limited as part of its continuous surveillance of the financial system. Head of Bank Supervision at BoG, Ismail Adam, instructed the financial institutions to provide the details of services provided by Flutterwave to their institutions, as well as the fintech company's operational accounts and other financial exposure details. All of this information was meant to be submitted to BoG by July 20, 2022. Flutterwave is listed on Ghana's Registrar General's Department. The ongoing review by the Bank of Ghana is coming within a period where Flutterwave has been accused of several financial misconducts. (Norvanreports)

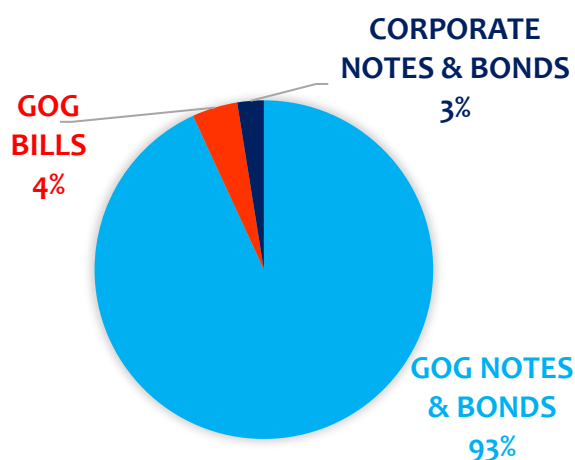

3 vehicle assembly plants in offing to produce 6 global brands – Finance Minister: Three additional vehicle assembly plants will be established this year to produce a total of six global brands namely, Hyundai, Isuzu, Honda, KIA, Changan, and ZX Auto. This significant increase in assemblers will broaden the choice of made-in-Ghana vehicles to 13 brands of automobiles. According to Finance Minister, Ken Ofori-Atta, the Ghana Automotive Development Programme under the Strategic Anchor Industries Initiative, continues to attract investment from global vehicle brands. Mr. Ofori-Atta has said government will pass regulations to implement measures before the end of the year to support the programme. (Myjoyonline)
