- ❖ Ghana Eyes $76 Billion Gain From Climate Prosperity Plan: Ghana has unveiled an ambitious Climate Prosperity Plan (CPP), projecting economic gains of $76 billion through investments in renewable energy, sustainable infrastructure, and climate-resilient policies. The CPP is designed to align with the country's updated Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) and accelerate climate goals while bolstering economic growth. The CPP prioritizes renewable energy, with plans to expand hybrid and floating solar power systems. Ghana's existing five-megawatt floating solar facility will be scaled up to meet rising demand for low-emission energy. At the heart of the plan is the Akosombo Net-Zero Industrial Park, a $105 million project to establish Africa's first renewable energy-powered industrial zone. (Norvanreports)
